Top Tip

Line up snapshots that tell a story once placed alongside one another.

What To Do

1. Using a sheet of white card, create a cut-out of a Polaroid. We used the dimensions W55mm x H85mm with a window of W45mm x H60mm, but you can scale this up to a larger size if you prefer.
2. Cut out a piece of card which is the same size as the outer dimensions of the frame. This will be the back of the frame.
3. Glue images from old magazines or newspapers onto the backing card to create a mini collage. Keep in mind that the edges will be hidden by the frame.
4. Glue your frame on top of the collage.
5. Draw some images on a separate piece of paper and cut or roughly tear them out. These will be the "subjects" of your snapshot.
6. Glue the drawings on to your collage. You don't have to stay within the frame!
